Where is she going

Ooo she looks like she's lost

Won't someone help her

Somebody give her a hand

She's got such sweet eyes

Look like they've seen too much

Knew someone like her

Nobody helped but she's home again

Home again

Home again

Where are you going

To see a crazy old man

What will he tell you

He'll tell me where I am going

What will you do then

I might just waist my time

What will you do then

I'm gonna find my way home again

Home again

Home again

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again

Where is he going

Why does he walk that way

Stickin' his chest out

What is he tryin' to say

He's got charisma

But when he's all alone

He curls up in a ball

And wishes that he was home again

Home again

Home again

Where are we going

Why do we feel so small

Alone and helpless

In this big crazy world

Lookin' for somethin'

That's so hard to describe

But just like children

Goin' along for the ride again

Ride again

Ride again

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again

Well ain't that somethin'

Guess I lost my head

Must've took a wrong turn

When I got out outta bed

Ended up on the wrong street

Wrong side of town

People here are the wrong type

They got me down

I'm eatin' the wrong food

Drinkin' the wrong wine

Can't hardly see straight

Can't walk the line

Shakin' all the wrong hands

Makin' the wrong talk

Steppin' on the wrong feet

Everytime I walk

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again

Where we goin' where we goin' home again

Home again
