Broken heart and and mind
Life moves unexpectedly
Throws you for a ride
Too often gets deadly

How do you heal a missing life?
And who's gonna flip the pages
Cuz somebody's gone now
And the scars ain't ever fading

Time can heal your wounds
You just gotta let it move you

Look at the tree
Like you never seen it
The roots trying to water the dying leaves
You'll see it's kinda tragic

Be strong
Remember what's inside you
Accept what's gone down
And let it define you

Time can heal your wounds
You just gotta let it move you

Your scars won't fade but they settle in Become part of your character
A symbol of your strength and pain
And the stories that you carry

So look out at the world
Like you never seen it
So you can understand it
So you can stand and face it
