(Written by Vonda Shepard)

I've been thinking
I've been thinking, I've been thinking too much
I just want to live now for a little while
And cast my dreams to the wind
Don't wanna wonder
Don't wanna wonder what it's all about
I'm just working for a living singing with my friends
As I cast my dreams to the wind
Maryland, I'm coming home
Never worry about what I did wrong
And that I'll never be what my daddy wanted me to be
And I'll never see what my mama's dreams were
But I will sing
La la la la la la la la
I wanna fly
I wanna fly down the highway to my home away from home
This funky funky club down on Fairfax Avenue to see you
And I'll never give up
Because what is there to give up anyway
I'm just working for a living, working for my pay
In Maryland it's raining somewhere in some cafe
Maryland, I'm coming home
Never worry about what I did wrong
And that I'll never be what my daddy wanted me to be
And I'll never see what my mama's dreams were
But I will sing
La la la la la la la la
