Plastic eyes surrounded by a suicidal
Urge to loose control now
And let this go
You're paralyzed at trying just to find a way
To learn to sleep alone now
That you're on your own

Say the words say the words out loud
Let them out of your soul

And as it is you're hidden underneath this fight
But sinking like a stone love so far below
The streets are paved with black and yellow lines
That never lead you back to home love
Cause you're on your own

Say the words say the words out loud
Let them out of your soul
We build our dreams and then burn them down to the ground
Till they're gone

We gotta find a way to love again
While the words are still there ringing in our heads
The prophet's saying the anthem's left for dead
While the words are still there
They're ringing in, they're ringing in...

We gotta find a way to love again
While the words are ringing in our heads
They're ringing in our heads
The prophet's saying the anthem's left for dead
While the words are ringing in our heads
They're ringing in our heads

Say the words say the words out loud
Let them out of your soul
