Guess I don't really know
How to have and to hold
But I'll save my goodbye for my dying day

It's too heavy, your load
To try to read what I've sown
We can't afford to waste away

PRE-CHORUS

So I got to find that something
I felt inside you again
Trying to forgive eternally

CHORUS

Cause I believe that love would lead us safely home
I believe you hurt alone
And I believe that what we made
We'd made of stone
And I believe that I was wrong
You see love is not something you fall into
Without a reckoning
So I am trying to believe in you and me.

Well You're heat to the bone
And I am cold as a stone.
We can't survive without a change
It's my love that you want
And I'm trying to move on
To see what we've got for better days

But I've got to find that something
I felt inside you again
I'm trying to forgive eternally

Cause I believe that love would lead us safely home
I believe you hurt alone
Now I believe that what we made
We'd made of stone
I believe that I was wrong

You see love is Not something you fall into
Without a reckoning
And pain is not just what you've put me through
It's watching you suffering
Well I am trying to believe in you and me.
