I could have seen it coming down the road
I could have planned for days to come
It took me some time but now I know for sure
But with a trail of broken things behind

It really doesn't matter now

I thought too much about things too small
It's all so clear with the scene behind
You're not a hero if you lose the war
What was lost now can't be found

It really doesn't matter now...

Everytime I had the chance to stop
And everytime the chance to turn around
I could fool myself but what's the point
We will all be gone it's just a matter of time

So it really doesn't matter now...
