He's losing the girl now His feelings overwhelm her so but nobody told her that's not always such a bad thing

It started in whispers came in when she had her man swept her away fast and said, "there's been a change of plans"

At first she was spellbound hanging on his every word Every touch perfect she could kiss him all night but he's no longer the bad guy now he's just her boyfriend she doesn't know how to tell him my dear, there's been a change of plans

She turns the phone off hide behind little lies and shuts the blinds, turns the lights low laying low she tells herself that he won't mind, he'll never mind and says goodbye but he can't hear it killing time (x2)

She's losing the boy now her feelings they pushed him away even though he had mentioned this time we'd like to take it slow she tried to get inside he was having none of that then she started to pull back she knew she had to change her plan soon it worked in a chase all the way he wanted her but after they made love he got a little gun-shy now he's frightened to call her she tries to play the waiting game But then she just couldn't take it

she knew she had to change her plan

He turns the phone off hide behind little lies and shuts the blinds, turns the lights low laying low he tells himself that she won't mind, she'll never mind and says goodbye but she can't hear it killing time

I'll stand witness to this prosecution crossing your fingers could they save me the damn sight mixed emotions, giggles as the tears dry I need attention and she needs a solution (x4)
