Even trough death, your army marches on
Still after years, your dagger is bleeding me dry
I've cut your throat more than a million times
Night after night, over and over again

I have buried you a thousand times
And all across the continents I've said your name
Who would've known forever would be such a long time

I curse the fact that I still love to see your smile

Reborn in all your glory you stand before me Crippled and broken my hallelujah spills out at your feet

Triumph - woman is your name
