

Shihad "Home Again"

Visit "Home Again" on MotoLyrics.com

Put your clock back, for the Winter.
She asks when I'll be, home again.
If I could see those eyes,
I know they cut me down to size.
You're not here, when I need you.
So sit, and wait, and bend, and break.
The rise, and fall, just you, that's all.
I'm here, you're there, don't mean, I don't care.
I'm so sorry, I was miles away.
It's been a day of, tiny triumphs,
It's been a week spent in despair.
You can't send it, down a phone line,
I do my best, but I'm not there.
She sleep, and wake, and dream up your fate,
And rise and fall, watch you, grow tall.
I'm here, you're there, but you should know I still loved
you,
When I'm, miles away.
I'll be home again,
I'll be home again,
Comin' home again.
I'm comin' home again

Visit Shihad page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.