The night falls down but I'm wide awake
The memory of you won't stop to ache
It got me so bad it won't leave my thoughts alone

While the world outside is sound asleep
The weather is raging inside of me
The wind blows hard and the clouds above grow
I still hear you say goodbye

And I see lightning strike, tears falling like heavy rain
Feelin' shake the ground now, rush over me like a wave
You may call the rivers and the seas, defying gravity
The pain just hits me right to the core just like a storm.

Without you here the seasons change
Is better find a way to rearrange
My universe slowly falls apart. Baby

Won't you just come back to me?
Ease my mind and give me peace
Have mercy on my breakable heart
Still recall you walking away

And I see lightning strike, tears falling like heavy rain
Feelin' shake the ground now, rush over me like a wave
You may call the rivers and the seas, defying gravity
The pain just hits me right to the core just like a storm.

Even though you're now gone you're still with me
I can feel you in the air
And I'm feeling all weak and torn
You're like a storm

Just like a storm

And I see lightning strike, tears falling like heavy rain
Feelin' shake the ground now, rush over me like a wave

You may call the rivers and the seas, defying gravity
The pain just hits me right to the core just like a storm.

Just like a storm
Like a storm
