"Blindfold The Leaves"

I sketched dots while viewing a transatlantic leave the ocean
I sketched dots and glued pieces together as i imagined them
Little daily victories that don't need to be told Interrupt photos with eyes that drift to sea
A camera obscure a decision made home
Friday sets a previous encounter
In the snow i ask questions
Lines draw figures of paper
I believe they are real Actions within old telephones
Coins that drop way too fast

Blindfold the leaves so they drop on my chest
Now it's time
A million sparks set the timing for flights that departure
now
