I woke up one morning
In the bathroom of your house
You were upstairs sleeping
So I let myself out

I walked around your garden
I kissed the morning air
Your neighbors saw me throwing stones
But they didn't seem to care

I used to think I'd have to stay awhile
But I don't think you know who I am
I used to think I'd have to say goodbye
But I don't think I know who you are

I know you've got other friends
Still asleep in separate beds
It doesn't bother me that much
Knowing they could be me instead

We're just a common tale, you know
Just wet lips and cigarettes
No different than a random act of love
That we'll soon forget

I used to think I'd have to stay awhile
But I don't think you know who I am
I used to think I'd have to say goodbye
But I don't think I know who you are

I used to think I'd have to stay awhile
But I don't think you know who I am
I used to think I'd have to say goodbye
But I don't think I know who you are
