

Shooter Jennings "Concrete Cowboys"

Visit "Concrete Cowboys" on MotoLyrics.com

Concrete Cowboys eat grinded grits They don't always wear hats or sling guns on their hips

They know a song by the taste on her lips
And he's as lonesome on any given day as the sound of that far away train that he prays someday will take him away

Lucky Lucinda was a big city girl Hungerin' for Country in a Rock-n-Roll world Dice shooting Darren was a sucker for Mearle
She saw the hollow look in his eyes
She longed to slide his boots under her bed tonight You'll never make him at home
for he's a ramblin stone
Little girl, he can get darker than you've ever known
And he always rides alone

You're best to leave him alone
for he's a ramblin stone
Little girl, things can get darker than you've ever known
And he always rides alone

Visit Shooter Jennings page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.