(Carl Belew - Van Givens)

Here's to the girls who serve the drinks in all the bars They're seldom ever happy but they'll make you think they are They'll laugh with you and dance with you and fill your glass with wine
But they're the girls that play the same sad song on the jukebox all the time.

Here's to the girls who live that kind of life
Nine now of ten of them was once a happy wife And here's to the heart I'd broken the love I left behind She's a girl that plays the same sad song on the
jukebox all the time.

Here's to the girls who work where lights are soft and dim
Here's to the lonely girls may they learn to love again
The one I love is out there somewhere if you'll see her treat her kind
She's a girl that plays the same sad song on the
jukebox all the time.

Here's to the girls who work where lights are soft and
dim
Here's to the lonely girls may they learn to love again
The one I love is out there somewhere if you'll see her
treat her kind
She's a girl that plays the same sad song on the
jukebox all the time.

She's a girl that plays the same sad song on the
jukebox all the time...
