He's messing with your head
Your tears aren't falling like they used to
You think of me instead
And how I've always been there for you

(You start wanting me more) But you hesitate to call
(Here you are at my door) And then the rain starts to fall

You take off all your clothes, and lay beside me
How was I to know, that you would ever be?
The one I want, the one I need baby
But you're with him, and she's with me lady
We'll make it right, eventually

She's trying to take control
By saying things she can't commit to
But what she doesn't know
I'm over her and thinking of you

(I start wanting you more) So I'm giving you the call
(Here you are at my door) And then the rain starts to fall

And you take off all your clothes, and lay beside me
How was I to know, that you would ever be?
The one I want, the one I need baby
But you're with him, and she's with me lady
We'll make it right, eventually

You're broken inside, you're tired of his lies
And it's me you always call
You need to feel alive, I wanna get inside
As the rain starts to fall

[Guitar Solo]

You take off all your clothes...
How was I to know, that you would ever be
The one I want, the one I need baby
But you're with him, and she's with me lady

We'll make it right, eventually

(You take off all your clothes) Eventually
(How was I to know) That you would ever be
But you're with him, and she's with me lady
We'll make it right...
We'll make it right, eventually
