i don't want to hear another song about a love gone wrong when the falling out was my fault i don't want to spend another night looking at the faded sky asking the stars to mend my broken life

when i woke up today it was to the sound of my cell phone ringing but i knew it was you and i didn't want to talk about last night i'm tired of trying to fix something that isn't worth the time so i guess i'll call you later then i turned on my radio but i don't want to hear another song

about a love gone wrong
looking at the sky asking the stars to mend my broken life when you showed up at my door you said you're sorry just for everything i don't understand at all and i look up and see myself in those bright blue eyes i want to know you better now so we went for a drive in your parents' car and you turned on the radio but i don't need to hear another song

about a love gone wrong
and i don't have to spend another night
looking at the sky
'cause you're doing everything you can to mend my broken life
