Waking up to cigarettes and coffee,
Waking up to you.
And i thank the lord you haven't left yet,
well just like you told me you would one day.

And you can't forget me,
So don't pretend.
And trust me, i always tell the truth
I always tell the truth.

And if all you want is out of this,
We could leave it all.
And I'm all yours for now, and that's all.
We could leave it all.

We sing but nobody listens at all
We sing but nobody listens at all
And we said too much without saying anything
And we said too much without saying anything
And we said too much without saying anything at all

And if all you want is out of this,
We can leave it all.
And I'm all yours for now, and that's all.
We could leave it all.

We sing but nobody listens at all
We sing but nobody listens at all
And we said too much without saying anything
And we said too much without saying anything
