It was the first time I had felt that way
Your first impressions guided me astray
What's the rush, why did I
Keep on following your lies
But now the world's moved on and there's still more time
For a second chance to bring immobile dreams to life

And the nights grow cold with the dawn of the breeze
And the birds all know when it will be spring again
The sunsets fall down the edge of the seas
Why does it still feel like time is frozen?
And the earth still goes, intertwined with the moon
And the stars explode like they've always done before
The fog still sits on a dull afternoon
Why does it seem like there's no aging anymore?
The time is moving always
But years seem like a few days
I can't let chances escape before it's too late
I know that thing I feel in my heart
Is only the very start
Of something bigger
That has only just begun
None of us will live forever
But until our forever ends we'll keep waiting

And the nights grow cold with the dawn of the breeze
And the birds all know when it will be spring again
The sunsets fall down the edge of the seas
Why does it still feel like time is frozen?
And the earth still goes, intertwined with the moon
And the stars explode like they've always done before
The fog still sits on a dull afternoon
Why does it seem like there's no aging anymore?
The time is moving always
But years seem like a few days
I can't let chances escape before it's too late
You say that life is only a game
For fun and fortune and fame
But when your time is up
Will you regret the person you used to be?
