"The Truth"

Look into the cloudy sky
Count the shapes as they go by The lies that hide behind these eyes have left their hiding

You can find me anywhere
Name a place and I'll be there
The faint remainder of your smile still is shining

Rain will fall and wind will blow
Lakes will always overflow
Just like my heart but you don't ever see what I see

There's still a spark but it's not bright It used to make me glad despite Your way of moving on before your victim's ready

Your past loves all warned about The things they had to live without I didn't know they meant you changed your mind that quickly

My friends all tend to disagree
When I said you were right for me
But they were right and I was wrong 'cause you blinded me

Since I don't like you anymore
There's no reason I can't ignore
You spending time with other girls more lucky than me

That's what I call jealousy
Your ignorance and apathy Just proves that we're too young to understand what love means

I know next time this happens that I'll take my dad's advice
I promise that I'll be more careful and that I'll think twice
I know I'll wait until I'm older to start thinking about love

But most of all I'll stay away from guys like you because

I really worry for your future life
Your mind will end up putrefied
If you don't stop your foolishness and listen to me

The truth is out and you are gone I'm happy that I'm moving on And soon you'll realize what's wrong with what you're doing
