Every morning there's a crow
Telling me the way to go
Different place I'm meant to be
Out in space infinity
Circling around the Sun
On the planet yet to find
But there's a name down in everything I go
Where to hide again nobody wants to show
And in a million years I couldn't let you fade
But today I have to find another way
Different eyes I need to see
My entire history
Need no air need no control
From above or down below
And considering my aim
I'm the one you shouldn't blame
But there's a name down in everything I go
Where to hide again nobody wants to show
And in a million years I couldn't let you fade
But today I have to find another way
