Wasting away without you by my side.
It's been so long, where are you now?
you told me 100 times how you'd be there for me but the back of your head is the only thing I see You can take everything that we had and throw it all
away
Here I go again wasting lines on you.
About the good times that have long since past.
Remembering promises that you love to break.
I hate these tears I shed almost as much as I hate you
away
