Time and time again I try to get it through my head that it's over.

Feels like I'm on the edge one false move and I fall So now it comes down to whether or not you are worth this.

All my time and energy wasted on someone like you.

Watch me as I break.

I'm falling apart like a poorly sewn ragdoll that's been tossed around one too many times by you.

My insides exposed for all of the world to see I hope you feel proud of what you have done to me.

And I would rip out my throat just to never hear your name roll off my tongue again.
