the electricity flowing through my veins its insane this refrain cannot explain how my bloods viscosity is almost drained static comatose my brains entrained to the pace of her heart
in the dark
seeing stars
run across her parts
far from a farce
if you like it I'll carve her initials in bark
my love is a spark
here's another nuance
I could be your proton
and you could be my neutron and we could get our groove on we could get our love on put your birthday suit on I could never move on and break our electron bond I gasp as the last panic attack escapes my vocal tracks(x2)

[refrain]

Wanna chase ya my thunder I'm lightning wanna make ya my thunder I'm lightning one is the most lonely number one such windbown lover had the misfortune to discover as half the man he'd suffer two can only find eachother to awaken passion from slumber turn into father and mother lose his love to another high voltage courses through his skin he grits his teeth alone again half the man he once had been love shocked the consequence lightning the most likely coincidence impotence seeming imminent no defense against his differences its over her final sentence is together were electronic a couple so iconic

our properties are supersonic and lasting like the chronic this I forever promise doesn't matter who lasts the longest I'll be forever faithful and honest marked by the words in the sonnet we'll outwit and outlast companions of the past
well be the white in contrast to the foreboding black
escapes my vocal tracks and my lungs collapse

the elements align humidity dry
clouds line a sky
that lights as a stripe
of light cuts across the starry calm
thunder touches my palm
and a new day dawn
a static comatose
not to be morose
its just the imagery provoked when the storm controls thoughts like static rushing mad like havoc
I try not to panic
