[Kevlaar 7] Enter the creation, devise secretion from the evening region Amniotic liquid speaking through urethra squeezing Breezing through pubes and fallopian tubes Allegiance knew that my brother would bloom soon Most of us coons, only the blackest Michigan whores Prophets to be, little half breeds born into the arms of reality '77 and '79, unconsciously infants we had conscious minds Music babies entered the world through the pores of heard commodores And much more resolved to my connected umbilical cord Influence, hip hop congruent the love of music Our mind states forced us to it Dedication got our hearts racing, frenzy fans waiting Destiny's mine, you so impatient, our graceful tongues aching Pulsating with the tracks, impact's breaking lyrical backs Y'all niggas think we pussy, I dare you faggots to dush me I'm dirty, never keep a clean nigga close to me Michigan, Unknown [Bronze Nazareth] Yo, break your spine, poor minds ready to climb Brain fine blown, and leave ____ lungs before they crack before the guns After number runs sons, disco night in moms stomach Looking at the blood running through the placenta Sizing up this world I'm 'bout to enter Fast-forward fifteen years later, spitting hot sprinters Branded on the jail tour, he just planted like an asteroid My beats bang on niggas heads until they beg for sin for it My team grew and subtracted, blurry face, intergalactic Flowing, the grates reacted on the moon face as I passed it So underground it ____, I fell through a space passage Asthma attack this, swinging from my uterine On my umbilical cord until I drop into existence Who ever knew this child in the egg was a gift That would grow up and one day become a verbal blacksmith Michigan,
