[Bronze Nazareth] Picture my crowd, nobody following Yo I be so high swallowing clouds man Tell me why you still feel rigs of lightning Yeah we thought I was still fighting Vision or inside is when you see in But no one takes the steps to envision 'Cause missing a centralized mission Needs the digestion in the abdomen of the Beast Where there are women passing infection of yeast You still fail to see through clouds of hashish? In this neglected masterpiece, we call light Hell yeah I know its trife I've wandered through the strife or even pondered taking my own life But that clears the road through an existence without ice Let me see, struggling is living, so living is an avenue to focus sights And doing things in the dark never helps us see the light So I be seat you; does that crucifix scare you?
I'll teach you People all hammering nails deep into the wrist of Jesus Even though he's witnessing this directly from my chest Shit is hard to swallow but there is a time when it must digest This here - I digress - is at best - destiny manifest Which means take control of your essence before the hiatus God bless us [Kevlaar 7] Realization of perfection, only in three sections Try to view through the madness, with no third-eye glasses Yet the masses have no vision, of the capability of our precision And our decision, it's an incision that won't heal Yeah we talk about keeping it real When you ain't been in a storm and don't feel Sincerity; it ain't about one individual's prosperity It's the rarity of one love that got us in shamble Looking above by our self with no help Yes sir! Believe me we all need it What is hunger if you don't feed it? How do you know good if you ain't seen evil? How do you know evil if you ain't seen good? Few have understood; individually We are all residually being eroded of our dreams of liberation Every man has it; but not every man grabs it They should become habit; until we all fundamentally understand it This is an esoteric statement, understood by few If not, grab a dictionary, and make you an itinerary Can't no one make you understand life but you
