Maggie lives on 2nd street,
Downtown by the river,
She looks away from everyone she meets,
They've got no time to give her.

Becuase on her shoulder,
There's a scarlet letter,
And nobody told her,
She could do better.

I've got no stone to throw,
No ax to grind,
I look in Maggie's life,
And I see mine.

I see somebody searchin' for somethin',
A little love and understandin',
And the longer I know the Lord the more I know,

I've got no stone to throw.

Maggie went across the road,
But she don't know why,
She said she tried religion once,
But it made her a lie,

She's been to hell and back,
So many times,
And she's done anything,
To survive,

I've got no stone to throw,
No ax to grind,
I look in Maggie's life,
And I see mine.

I see somebody searchin' for somethin',
A little love and understandin',
And the longer I know the Lord the more I know,

I've got no stone to throw.

Maggie lives in every town,
And people talk about her,
'cause it's easier to put her down,
Then to care about her.

She has a Savior,
He is her judge,
Oh Maggie you deserve,
To be loved...

I've got no stone to throw,
No ax to grind,
I look in Maggie's life,
And I see mine.

I see somebody searchin' for somethin',
A little love and understandin',
And the longer I know the Lord the more I know,

I've got no stone to throw.

I've got no stone to throw.

No, no,

Hay ee yeah (ee yeah)
