"The Journey"

Everybody's got a story to tell
I'm no different than anybody else
And the pages of this child testify
That it's You who gives me life
The longer that I live the more I realize
I owe everything to You
Even though at times my strength is gone
I'm always right where I belong
Your love carries me through

On the journey
Every step I take
I am learning
That I've got to walk by faith
You're beside me
Right here to guide me all the way
And every day I'll follow Your lead
On the journey

I see Your mercy and every single time
Tears begin to fill my eyes
'Cause way too often I have known
Forgiveness You have always shown
There's no way I can deny

I know I don't deserve
To walk in Your light
But I'll keep holding on to You
With all my might
