Girl behind the screen, the movie I seem to see is hardly there
The glass contacts in my eyes make it hard to focus When you step out on the floor your tresses swaying in the piano
The fabric of your invisible body is being sewn
The fabric of your invisible body being sewn with music

Kaite will you come true for me
Come by some time when I'm awake
Everyone else just lies to me, yeah
They say you're a dream

Will you step into the light from the screen
So that I can make out your shape
You don't need to tell me anything because
I know what you mean

Girl up in the windows let the air and the music inside your room
Turn off the tv, stretch your body out as far as it goes
The plants you nurtured are all beaming and growing in gratitude
The ones forgotten have all withered and they're black
as coal
They're black now, woman.
The ones forgotten have all withered and they're black
as coal

Kaite will you come true for me
Come by some time when I'm awake
Everyone else just lies to me
They say you're a dream

Will you step into the light from the screen
So that I can make out your shape
You don't need to tell me anything because
I know what you mean

The rain shall come
And corpses become roses

There's a hidden beauty finding its way out of everything

Kaite will you come true for me
Come by some time when I'm awake
Everyone else just lies to me, yeah
They say you're a dream

Will you step into the light from the screen
So that I can make out your shape
You don't need to tell me anything because
I know what you mean

Just hold your tongue
Don't be so quick to curse them
There's a hidden beauty finding its way out of everyone

Kaite will you come true for me
Come by some time when I'm awake
Everyone else just lies to me, yeah
They say you're a dream

Will you step into the light from the screen
So that I can make out your shape
You don't need to tell me anything because
I know what you mean
