

Brother Craig's "Homecoming"

Visit "Homecoming" on MotoLyrics.com in two. alone he'll forget the time burn money to ashes. be drunken with wine a fool. not knowing his left from right he's loosing direction. his home within sign.

(staggered in with no where to begin) i've left you again now i'm back to amend no word that i say would be true i'm fine on my own except for i'm all alone.
i'm just incomplete without you. undo,
the bondage of faith that ties, unsevered connections just holding too tight.
end pretending tough stop sending surface his new home.
won't think too long he's incomplete without you (staring over the shoulder to sin)
Chorus
away he's walking to the sun blinded in light of what he's done and echoed voices burning he's trying hard to clear his mind but digging deeper he'll only find buried treasure forgotten face here i am on my own, now coming home x7 i'm fine on my own except for i'm all alone i'm just incomplete without you

Visit Brother Craig's page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.