The war will never end
It crackles through the speakers
I watch the landscape roll on by
And all the drinks that warmed me up
From my toes on through my fingers
I made it through this day alive

And everything must go wrong before it goes right
So all the pages that I wrote will burn tonight
Will burn tonight

My mind skirts around the bend
The days started to unravel
And I may never sleep again
For once I had so many thoughts
That I wanted to convey
But it seems my day is at an end

And everything will go right all in good time
And all the pages that I wrote, so starry eyed
So starry eyed

This war is noise
This war is noise
This war is noise
This war is noise

Another cold fronts moving in
There's no perfect way to live
But just keep an open heart
I've got so much more to give
If I could only find a way to show you all I've got
Cause nothings worth this heavy heart
And less and less I even care
Cause nothings worth this heavy heart
And less and less I even care

This war is noise
This war is noise
This war is noise
This war is noise
