Street light shining down on me
Rain is falling as you turn the key
I say "Goodnight, gotta get home,"
But I get the feeling that you're not alone

I see your shadow in the doorway
As you run to him
I'm tearing myself apart
Losing my head to my heart

And I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window
I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window

I thought we were meant to be
My love was so blind I couldn't believe
I would lose you, now I can't let go
And every night as I lay here alone

I see your shadow in the doorway
As you run to him
Deep in my heart I know
I'll never see you again

Cause I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window
I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window

I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window
I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window
I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window
I've been looking in your window
Looking in your window
