It's a miracle of life undone
It's a miracle of life undone

Is there a silence in the sky
I hear no bird, I see no fly
Whispering treetop ceases to call
Trickle replaces waterfall
Running down to the hard dusty ground

Rhythm of life has rearranged
Warm summer winds begin to change
Looking ahead I see the day will come

Ah, life's miracle undone
Life's miracle undone
Life's miracle undone

Just before sunset blackbird used to sing
Haven't you noticed he's no longer on time
I close my eyes, wipe out the rainbow
The old tree groans
Knowing he's the next in line

Rhythm of life has rearranged
Warm summer winds begin to blow
Looking ahead I see the days will come

Ah, life's miracle undone
Life's miracle undone
Life's miracle undone

This is the song of the Earth...
