To a gold and seaside teller place
Sitting and watching waves along the shore
Wishing all things, remember things
Like we have so much in store
And we only wish for more

They don't even know this time has passed
Something hidden treasures in the sand
Sharing with one another's breathe
Holding the weak ones hand
Oh, why can't we learn from them?

There's so much to learn from them

Did you hear the rain last night?
It was telling me about you
I've opened up your heart like them
I learned the lesson too, and now I love you.
