if this is a bridge
then we're at different ends and something's in the way i guess it all depends on what i didn't say

some call it brave
i call it loss

cause i couldn't face
the vulnerable part of starting over
an arrow through my heart tattooed your name
without an aim

i'm talking to you
and you're talking too
i wonder if you care as much as i do all these walls and obstacles are causing way too many falls then i see your face

my heart starts to race
i turn pale and grin
and find a hiding place

when some turn red
well i turn blue

if you only knew how much i think of you and all the time that passes by cause i'm so shy i wonder why and i know now if i should die then i would try to kill myself a hundred times to save your life
and get the chance to tell you i love you...

but all these walls and obstacles grew icicles in between you and me
