You use to believe in something bigger than yourself
Now tell me this was all a dream
You have no idea
The lies you've told

(You have no idea
The lies you've told)

This has all been done before
Watching the time go by
You've done no wrong, but still you are in it alone
Oh, God, it's taken its toll
You've let it steal your time
Don't let it steal your soul
Don't let it steal your soul
Don't let it steal your soul

The day you look up at the sky
And feel so proud of yourself
The stars come crashing down

The day you look up at the sky
And feel so proud of yourself
The stars come crashing down

So think twice
Before you face the truth
These lies will lead us to our grave

So think twice
Before you face the truth
These lies will lead us to our grave

And these ghosts of our sins are back from the dead
Clinging to the life that they once knew

And these ghosts of our sins are back from the dead
Clinging to the life that they once knew

They strangle the truth
Still clinging to the life that they once knew

They strangle the truth
Still clinging to the life that they once knew

They Strangle the truth

So take control of your life
And take control of your faults
You've been misled

So take control of your life
And take control of your faults
You've been misled
