

Anatomy Of A Ghost "Since Yesterday"

Walls crash down around us,
Standing atop the ocean.
These breaking waves
Threaten to drown the world.
And this canvas of sheets
So ethereal.

Morning comes to breakfast
Please tell me before I wake.

It's tied down
So I don't forget to breathe.

One masquerade
For the last parade.
These hands back down.
Lungs fill with blood.
You never told me you hate me,
But you showed it so well
And this won't be the last time.

Take your time, don't regret.
The fall ends shortly.
No we won't be holding on
Or holding out for you to take your time.
This was all your choice.

Climbing up you were so sure, so confident

You could jump off and just float away.
But don't be so sure to be saved now.

It's tied down
So I don't forget to breathe.
One masquerade
For the last parade.
These hands back down.

Pretend that I'm back to the "please tell me how."
Hearts don't forget to break
Hearts don't forget to

Walls crossed behind we fall down
The bridges that carry us home.

It's tied down
So I don't forget to breathe.
It's tied down
So I don't forget to breathe.
One masquerade
For the last parade.
These hands back down
One masquerade
For the last parade.
These hands back down.
