It was yesterday you told me you loved me
But today I learned you found someone else
And everything was fake, was fake.
When I get back home I know that you'll be gone.
And all the things I've given you are left behind
I'll put them in a box.
And today I found out you moved in with him.
A one-bedroom apartment down the road
From the place we first met, first met.
When I get back home I know that you'll be gone.
With all the memories of me you had locked here in this box.
And I'll start to think of everything we had.
I was always there for you
I asked for nothing in return I swear, I swear.
I'll believe, you'll make me see.
You were there with someone else.
See my pain, I'll believe you were there with him, there with him
I don't want to see your face again, not like this.
I don't have to see you in this place, in this place.
I don't want to see your face again, face again.
I will not be ashamed, not now.
This time I won't be ashamed of it.
This time I won't make it change myself.
This time I will make myself believe.
My heart, it won't break this time,
Won't be left behind,
I won't be so shy.
I won't let you win this time.
