Who want to know what our future will be?
Is it so necessary to understand what our life will be?
Our time is so precious, why to use it up in this way?

Everyday, if u want, u can realize how the world turns
on,
Everyday, if u want, u can change the way
Everyday, if u want, u can live an "happy moment"
When the future is now. Time-out!

Who want to be in another place, in this place While we're looking the sea, while we're seeing an angel
While we're enjoying the result so hardly got

Everyday, if u want, u can realize how the world turns
on,
Everyday, if u want, u can change the way
Everyday, if u want, u can live an "happy moment"
When the future is now

Some time ago I said myself:
"The present is the image
Riflected in a mirror
A place between a room
With closed shuterr
And the only ray
That so intensely disclose
The colour of my eye".

I though the future had always been less clear
While the past had been emerging again
The twilight isn't so far and the present is all I've now.

Everyday, if u want, u can realize how the world turns
on,
Everyday, if u want, u can change the way
Everyday, if u want, u can live an "happy moment"
When the future is now
