So many steps, so few miles to miss you
So many days, a place so unlike home
Conversation, it ain't you that's talking
And the show gets dull
You forget what you're watching

Strange how you just can't get moving
Strange how you just can't settle down
Strange how you spent your whole life searching for it
And you haven't found it yet

Sights are plain, eyes are tired from searching
And cups crack dry, they long to be filled

Strange how you just can't get moving
Strange how you just can't settle down
Strange how you spent your whole life searching for it
And you haven't found it yet
