I never thought a girl could play me like you do Bend me, control me yet somehow, make me love you too

I gave you my home, my heart and soul, my promises
But then you broke them all, smashed them into pieces

(Chorus)

And now, that you're here, and you need somebody near
By your side, in your heart, though it was you that tore us apart
I feel you, running through my soul
You hurt me, but I just can't let go

You made it just so hard for me to let you in Then we'd start talking, we'd just end up arguing

I never knew someone could be so hard-hearted But there was something there from the moment we met

(Chorus)

And now, that you're here, and you need somebody
us apart
I feel you, running through my soul
You hurt me, but I just can't let go

I know you didn't mean those bitter words you said But you can't keep on playing these games with my head

And now, that you're here, and you need somebody
us apart
I feel you, running through my soul
You hurt me, but I just can't let go

(Chorus)

us apart

I feel you, running through my soul

You hurt me, but I just can't let go
