We are together in a place so far away
And now you are remembering that day
Today you see your world falling down
And now your face is fucked on the ground

We are together in a place so far away
And now you are remembering that day
We are together in a place so far away
And your life will never be the same

We are together in a place so far away
And now you are remembering that day
Months and days being in the same place
And your life will never be the same

We are together in a place so far away
And now you are remembering that day
We are together in a place so far away
And your life will never be the same

We are together in a place so far away
And now you are remembering that day
Today you see your world falling down
And now your face is fucked on the ground
