Take away my halos
Take away my emotions
Take away my devils
All my pride and devotion
Take away my silence
And feel my pain
As it grows up from under
This voice that I have strained
Retaliate with violence
As my body grows numb
To these fears I've created

Now here it comes again
I cannot believe the pain
As it rips me from what's sane
I can't deal with my own thoughts
Yet I don't know what is wrong
All these things that I have learned
Build an unsatisfying urge
To change back what I have done
And all my life I've just been dumb

Take away my freedom
Disappointing sight
Just give me one good reason
To believe in what you've designed

Well now here it comes again
They won't tell you what is wrong
'Cause they're scared of your alarm
As you wake up to what's real
While these dreams could not reveal
All their methods are the raged
They will never take the blame
For this nation they've abused
When all we ask for is the truth

I would say that we are just a tool
To confuse my only rules
We comply with what we're dealt
You know we brought in on ourselves

And then the apathy drains me
And then it burns my soul
I gotta pull together
I gotta gain control
Well now I can't do anything
My back's against the wall
I've got an apathetic urge
To destroy you all

(What am I, what am I, what am I...)
