"Goodwill Day"

It's a lazy Saturday morning
My friends want go to the mall
So I look inside my wallet
Hoping by some miracle
There would be a couple of twenties
So I can fall into the Gap
I turned my wallet upside down
Six bucks fell in my lap
That may not sound like a new
Wardrobe to you
But now I know what store
I'll be going to

Chorus:

It's a good, good, good, good Goodwill day
It's a good, good, good, good Goodwill day
It's a good, good, good, good Goodwill day

Well, I wondered about their selection
But they had more than enough
And I couldn't believe that people
Actually wore some of this stuff
There was plenty of polyester
With a seventies disco flair
And parachute pants with a million zippers
Like my brother used to wear
Now, I can't drop fifty bills on Calvin Klein
But check out this cool shirt I got
For a dollar ninety-nine

Chorus

(cool whistling part)

I thought about all the people
Who owned these clothes before me
And if they only knew that their old shoes
Are being used for the ministry
I think I've got some old stuff
They might wanna sell

And if they want my shirt I may give them my coat as well Chorus
