Lead us to war... ..war!
return home because war's where the heart is
lead us to war... ..war!
a procession fallen into submission

Black skies surround everyday there's no sign of the light that once embraced us time is our enemy now shackles of death hold us down without warning it carries us far away dig deeper into this hole falling faster and leaving ourselves to blame use the anger inside to keep us warm

A violent struggle to break free we've had enough, so let us be soon there will be some hell to pay we want to see the light of day
Lead us to war... ..war!

return home because war's where the heart is
a procession fallen into submission we lay lifeless allowing it to grasp us Dementia slowly sets in eating away at our souls the end approaching so near one by one, growing weaker every moment now at last we seek comfort in our madness
the night encompassed by silence we have sunk to the bottom of this nightmare!

A violent struggle to break free

Lead us to war... ..war!
return home because war's where the heart is a procession fallen into submission lead us to war...

...war!
