One time in this sordid life, I had it all but let it go.
Backtrack: I need the facts of why you're better off out on your own.

Waste your time-better yours than mine.
Should I draw the line? Should I give my heart away?
My unlucky streak is catching up with me:
you're the one that got away.
One day you'll be back and you will say, "Nobody
compares to you."
I count down even though I know now, I'll always be chasing you.

Two times I've looked deep inside, and my body wants
to go.
A soundtrack brings me back in time: a summer
Sunday afterglow.

Waste your time-better yours than mine
Should I draw the line? Should I give my heart away?
You left it incomplete, a break that wasn't clean;
I can't watch it fade away.
One day you'll be back and you will say, "Nobody
compares to you."
I count down even though I know now, I'll always be
chasing you.

When was I strong? I can't go on.
Each day is longer than the one before.
Don't shot me down, don't let me drown-
this is the sound of someone wanting more.

When was I strong? I can't go on.
Each day whoa, whoa.
Don't shoot me down.

One day you'll be back and you will say, "Nobody
compares to you."
I count down even though I know now, I'll always be chasing you.

And I miss you.

Don't you know we'll get through anything in time?

Miss you.

Don't you know we'll get through anything in time?
