A grand blank look on your face
When you learned it was over
Do you ever question why
What could have been different?
We were so comfortable living in each other's skin
I was dying from within

Cause god, drugs, and sex don't mean a thing
To you now, do they now baby?
I don't mean anything
By it now, do I now sweetheart
You should have thought about then for now
God, drugs, and sex don't mean a thing
To you now, do they now baby?
You should have thought about then for now
But I gotta leave, I gotta leave

Tell me where did you learn to love
(Maybe you don't want to know)
Tell me when did your hands grow cold
(It might tell you something)
If you could go back to yesterday
Would you change it all for me?
If you thought we can be together
Would you believe that?

God, drugs, and sex don't mean a thing
To you now, do they now baby?
I don't mean anything
By it now, do I now sweetheart
You should have thought about then for now
God, drugs, and sex don't mean a thing
To you now, do they now baby?
You should have thought about then for now
But I gotta leave, I gotta leave

Did you not hear me coming along the road?
Did you not see me coming along the way?
With the bright on lights leading you astray
With the bright on lights to guide you away from your home

Would you change?
Would you change it all for me?

Let go! Let go of me, I'm not here
Let go! Let go of me now cause I'm already gone
Let go! Let go of me, I'm not here
Let go! Let go of me now cause I'm already gone
Let go! Let go of me, I'm not here
Let go! Let go of me now cause I'm already gone
Let go! Let go of me, I'm not here
Let go! Let go of me now cause I'm already gone
