

Classic Crime, The "Different Now"

Visit "Different Now" on MotoLyrics.com

The sunset through the blinds reminds me of the time we met
You were like a ray of sunlight penetrating my apartment
As we walked down by the water I remember what you said
You said we had so much in common, you didn't see it coming Oh I was as surprised to find the love inside your eyes as you were to see mine
And our friends all laughed and we were warned
It was the calm before the storm that comes like it always does
Like it always does

Love of mine oh my how we have grown We're different now
Don't ever want to go back to being alone
It's different now
And I wouldn't change a thing

I recall the times we spent down by the coffee shop
We would fight and you would cry, 'cause in those days
I lied a lot Tried to protect you from the truth, I had to learn that never worked
I couldn't hide anything from you, couldn't bare to see it hurt you
Oh I was so surprised to find forgiveness in your eyes Undeserved, but love is blind
So we shared our hearts as we drove home
It was the calm before the storm that comes like it
always does

After all the mistakes
It's different now
It seems our love never breaks
It's different now
And I wouldn't change a thing

