the cracks appear along the wall wall wall wall wall see the people stoop back, that once stood tall tall tall tall tall

i see the buildings crumble see the empires fall but i see no more and i don't recall cause i see

nothing but the good things

cause i see

'cus i see

nothing but the good good good good good good

well nothing ventured nothing lost count the changes count the cost a reformation so uncertain keep your station draw the curtain cause out there the snipers work the ridges building bombs and blowing bridges out there on a darkened road the lines are dead and the cars explode but in here

in here

in here

i see a green sea a pleasant land land land land land nothing legal underhand on the fence or in the sand well i take no chances and i take no stand against the wall

against the wire

against the fall

against the fire

against the sale

against the hire

they say the profit's high but i know the cost is higher still i see

still i see
still i see, hear, speak, do, talk, see
nothing but the good things
nothing but the good things
nothing but the good good good good things
