I am calm and content
I am selfish, I'm a wreck
As the time plays tricks on me again
It's the change in the seasons (it's the thrill of the fight)
That always seems to bring me home for the moment or forever

Then I could hardly believe my eyes
I saw a man with a dream, I saw myself in disguise

He said "if you could count on me, I could lead you through this life"
It's not easy to tell when I don't know you that well to think that you could be the better part of me

I am all that I have, I am all that I need I am everything you don't want to be And I've never had a problem under pressure but the last few years of silence made me blame it on the weather
It's a doubt in the reason why faces all around me fade (for the moment or forever) what about the friends I've made?

I could hardly believe my eyes.
I saw a man with a dream, I saw myself through my eyes.

He said "if you could count on me, I could lead you
through this life"
It's not easy to tell when I don't know you that well to

And there's no other excuse (it must be, it must be)
And there's no other excuse (it must be, it must be)

It's the change in the seasons, it's the thrill of the fight

"If you could count on me, I could lead you through this life"
It's not easy to tell when I don't know you that well to
