Invisible war, seems we're fighting an invisible war
Strained manoeuvres, keeping silent score
In this invisible war
Every day I seem to lose you more
Both wishing it was like before
In this invisible war

Talk about a fine line between love and hate We've lost more than our direction of late
Talk about a fine line between lovers and friends We've never been lovers and now we're not even friends

In this invisible war, seems we're waging an invisible war
Every day I seem to lose you more
In this invisible war It wounded deeply the scar is here to stay

Opening up at all the little things I do and say
You always want things to be as before
So I make you angry and you bleed a little more In this invisible war, seems that we're waging an invisible war

Every day I seem to lose you more
In this invisible war Want to go away (I still love you)
Got to go away (I always love you)
Got to be away (Time heals all wounds)
